

shielding cut in the center and separated into two braids. One braid connected to center wire of feed line and another to feed line shield.